

MARCH FOR SCIENCE

SYRACUSE NY ❄️ APRIL 22, 2017

CLINTON SQUARE, SYRACUSE

10:00am – 12:00pm

Please join us for this family-friendly event!

March for Science - Syracuse celebrates public discovery, understanding, and distribution of scientific knowledge as crucial to the freedom, success, health, and safety of life on this planet in a nonpartisan way.

We will gather in Clinton Square for a one-hour rally in support of science, led by several speakers including Syracuse University Professor Emeritus for Biology Marvin Druger.

The rally will be followed by an hour of an in-person Ask Me Anything with Central New York scientists. Children are encouraged to come dressed as their favorite scientist. Before the rally, take action by joining an Earth Day cleanup sponsored by the Downtown Committee or OCRRA.

Details: <https://www.facebook.com/MarchForScienceSyracuse>

Organized in collaboration with New Feminists for Justice, the Undergraduate Student Association of ESF, and local science-minded citizens